

»ESG Hallmarks – The Future of Compliance«

Monday, June 12, 2023, 17:00–21:00 CEST

Introduction

The European Green Deal has triggered an unprecedented wave of legislative initiatives and reforms that will radically impact the way European society and economy operates. The dynamic transformation is driven by a package of new laws and reporting requirements and business developments which focus on environmental, social, and governance (ESG) issues. Companies are increasingly expected to conduct business in a manner that is not only legally but also ethically sustainable. Management is being held accountable not only for the company's business strategy and results, but also for society's various environmental and social concerns. Corporate reporting and disclosure requirements are increasing, as are public scrutiny, activism, climate and greenwashing litigation.

Under the heading "ESG Hallmarks – The Future of Compliance", we will look at different key requirements and challenges impacting companies and management representatives. Together with our guest speakers we want to discuss how companies can best organize and proactively position themselves to successfully navigate and manage the new ESG challenges. Our guest speakers Michaela Ahlberg and Anna Romberg will share their views and recent examples of what is still going wrong in companies when it comes to adhering to social values. They are ready to share with us their many years of experience and will openly discuss with our guests as leaders in their respective fields of compliance, legal and management how such leadership and gatekeeper functions could and should facilitate and accelerate their company's transformation and ambitions towards ESG.
